FORMER WIFE OF "LEFTY" FLYNN IS BRIDE ONCE MORE

Married to Charles W. Rendigs,
Wealthy New York Cloak
Manufacturer

(Special to The Farmer.)

New York, Jan. 7.—Rena Leary, the Winter Garden chorus girl, whose marriage to Maurice ("Lefty") Bennett Flynn caused the sudden ending of Flynn's brilliant college career, and who divorced him not long afterward, has been married again.

Charles W. Rendigs, a cloak manufacturer, wedded her Oct. 16 at the bride's home, 278 West Seventieth street. Charles J. Powers, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Holyoke, Mass., performed the ceremony.

Several members of the bride's family attended the wedding. It was designed to be a secret to all others.

In January, 1913, Miss Leary eloped with Flynn. Her fondness for secret marriages was manifested then, for she kept her identity a secret many days. In February, 1914, Mrs. Flynn won a divorce, with $20 a month alimony.

A trip to Europe followed. Upon her return a house at No. 323 West Seventy-fourth street was given her by an unidentified friend. Rumor has been following a quarrel the kind friend took the house back.

Mr. Rendigs was divorced by Mrs. Anna Grace Diehl Rendigs in September, 1908. She was awarded the custody of their children and alimony of $50 a week.

Mrs. Rendigs refused to see reporters yesterday. Mr. Rendigs said:

"You have all the facts. There is nothing for me to add except that both Mrs. Rendigs and I hope to be left alone from now on. She is tired of publicity, and wishes to live privately. The articles in the afternoon papers were as false as ridiculous. I am not a millionaire and the residence my wife and I are occupying is very simple. This is no tango highball marriage, and we are going to live quietly and be happy."

ASK PERMISSION TO ERECT WOODEN HOUSES.

Before the fire committee of the common council last night, Attorney Alex L. DeLaney, counsel for Louis Rubenstein, asked permission for his client to erect a two-story four family wooden house in James street, where the fire limit cuts through the middle of the proposed structure. Adolph Sherman asked permission to erect two wooden houses within the fire limits in Warren street.
